DIY Installation

All LIFE motors all work off the smart board specially designed to create a simple and elegant installation process. The smart board is specifically engineered to simplify the programming procedure to just one button!

Automation for swing gates

LIFE opens new perspectives in the world of automation: even for the swing gates sector. In fact, the family of electro-mechanical gear motor ARMOR offers a wide range of choice in the 24Vdc versions with DIGITAL LIFE TECHNOLOGY. This is the result of high level designing and manufacturing, aligned with the most evolved and demanding quality, design and functionality standards on the present market. But that's not all find out all the benefits of this and the other LIFE products: open up to a new era in "integration".

A novelty designed to last

ARMOR models are designed and manufactured without losing quality. The structure is made of a high density aluminium diecast, a material as light as inalterable. The external shell, one of LIFE's distinguishing features, is undeformable. Drive shaft and main machinery lie on over-sized ball-bearings, bronze bushings and gauge, in order to guarantee the best resistance through time.

Instant safety

ARMOR has an alert eye and a clever brain: the encoder, the electronic control unit and the limit switches. The encoder monitors the gate's functioning and instantly detects any object or person that should cross its ray of action. The electronic control unit elaborates all the information and enables in real time the most appropriate safety measures. As safety is never too much, ARMOR also comes with two "limit switches" that send another precise signal about the gate's positioning.

Simple installation, immediate

DIGITAL LIFE TECHNOLOGY interface and protocol allow a simpler installation of photocells, transponder, digital selectors and other command devices. New devices are immediately acknowledged, due to the "plug and play" system: therefore the system can be updated and expanded at any time.
